--------	-----------------	--

It appears that the purchases added up to $45.79 cents and they received 25.22 in cash, butter, etc. leaving a balance of $20.57 still due.

And apparently cost 12 ½ cents to probate this bill.

Gives an interesting look into the lives of this Statler family and the women and their sewing and dressmaking. Wish I could decipher what the pairs of sees, seef, seep were. I am seeing a trend here. Perhaps it is saying that that item was purchased by "the Decd" as a few of the other items were per son, or per wife. If so then there were pairs of nothing and the reference merely was showing who made the purchase.

The must have paid for some of their purchases in butter, rags, feathers as well as cash. And apparently still had a bill due at the time of Christian's death of 20.37.

You could nearly write a story on the life of this CHRISTIAN STATLER, JR.; at least the end of his life. He had a lot of bills due at his death. Do not know if he overspent but apparently was in the process of building a new brick home when he died. Perhaps his death was unexpected. It seems eventually there was money to pay all the bills and since he paid taxes on 57 acres about the time of his death, probably had a farm. Christian Statler, Jr., was born about 1787, and died in 1840, would have been about 53 when he died.

The above Sale bill is correct.....signed by JOHN LEFEVER, Clerk

In trying to answer the question above on the "w" after some of the items, seems to hold true that those so marked were not sold so probably were designated to belong to the widow though she did buy a few items like plates and bowls from the regular sale. There is one capital letter in some of the names that so far I have been unable to decipher. It appears in the name I thought was Hook , but does not match with the writing of the letter H in other places. Many of the names in the auction list above are familiar names in the rest of these probate papers.

From the above and several of the other pages of items purchased it would appear that Isaac was very sick at the end of his life and from the amount of wine and liquor he was consuming I would assume very much in pain. It was as though they were keeping him drunk on wine so he wouldn't feel the pain. Note from some of the earlier entries as much as a year earlier he was buying and drinking brandy, rum, etc and going for it at least once a month, and perhaps even taking some of it home. If he had cancer or something that might account for all the liquor he was consuming trying to cover up the effects of the cancer or illness whatever it might be. Would be nice to know what he died of.

Also not that several of the above were apparently purchased by a Davis, who was no doubt Isaac's doctor. So he was prescribing this liquor at this time as perhaps there was nothing else to stop the pain.

Though I will not type out the pages of drinks and whiskey that Isaac apparently bought and probably consumed and were charged, there were over 63 entries for the year 1832 mainly a glass or two or ½ pint at a time purchased from JOHN TAMPLIN (or a similar name) at a cost of $5.84 for the year.

For the year 1833 he charged about the same number and ended up with a total of $10.81 for the two years, still not paid for. A glass of whiskey was a little more than 6 cents, and appears to be about ½ pint. His purchases ranged from 6 cents to 18 ¾ cents.

For the year of 1834 we find he had made about 27 purchases making his total due at $13.06 and somewhere along the line must have paid $8.18 ¼ leaving a total due of $4.87.

There are 7 entries which show Isaac paid some by cash and some by oats. These entries do run from 1833 through to 1835.

In consideration of the purchases we find made by Isaac, we can note that this could have easily been just a weekly trip to town and a visit to the local tavern which was probably not at all unusual for those who did drink. It is just hard to believe they went for drinks that they did not have the money in their pockets. So they ran a tab at the bar. Later on it appears that his doctor, John Davis was prescribing liquor for him after he became ill. And was John Davis some relation to Isaac's wife, Abigail Davis/Davies????
